DESIGN MEETS DESIRE

Third time's a charm—hot off the heels of completing its trifecta of Colorado showrooms in Willits (900 East Valley Road, P.O. Box 3215, Basalt), Decorative Materials remains at the forefront of interior design. We sat down with president Kirsten Schmit to hear her tile forecasts for fall.

EASY BEING GREEN

"This trend is perfectly exhibited in New Ravenna's Gracie Collection. This unique collaboration allowed the artisans at New Ravenna to recreate Gracie's iconic patterns in glass mosaic form. The collection encompasses organic patterns inspired by the ocean, cherry blossoms and chinoiserie. The botanical trend is also exhibited in the Behemoth moody mosaic, also from New Ravenna." -KS    CONTINUED...

HEART IN HAND

"Our trade clientele is particularly drawn to products that reflect the hand of the maker. Products with an undulating surface and edges are ever popular in the Colorado market. Handmade Moroccan zellige tile which, beautifully displays a natural handmade product, has been trending for years, although we are now seeing artisans deviate from the standard 4x4 size. Unusual shapes such as trapezoids and tumbled zellige mosaics are trending in the market. Clients can't seem to get enough of this product." -KS

Hand-painted and hand-crafted in Morocco, the Teton unglazed clay zellige mosaic is available at Decorative Materials

Pyrenees Grey limestone, available at Decorative Materials

SET IN STONE

"While all these products are beautiful stand-alone, they pair beautifully with our antiqued natural stones. With a focus on legacy and inheritable properties, we frequently pair decorative mosaics with antiqued stones. Using products inspired by nature with products that are from the earth creates a cohesive feel in any design." -KS
